24. Grover Cleveland

Democrat

Recall he's also the 22nd President. The first President elected to non-consecutive terms, Trump being the second.

Want more fun facts? He won the popular vote but lost the reelection to Benjamin Harrison who was the 23rd President.

He won the popular vote his second term. Only he, Andrew Jackson, and Franklin D. Roosevelt have won the popular vote in three separate elections.

Did not attend college. (George Washington, Andrew Jackson, Martin Van Buren, Zachary Taylor, Millard Fillmore, Abraham Lincoln, Andrew Johnson, and Harry S. Truman also never attend college.)

His real first name was actually Stephen, not Grover. He used his middle name Grover as an adult.

The second heaviest President, weighing 240-280 pounds. (Taft would beat him in that regard.)

6th youngest President.

Signed the Presidential Succession Act of 1886, which was prompted by the death of his Vice President Thomas A. Hendricks in 1885.

He had the honor of dedicating the Statue of Liberty in New York Harbor.

Accused of being the illegitimate father of a 9 year old boy and admitted it may have been so, but claimed the father could also have been a law partner Oscar Folsom.

In any case the presidential campaign survived the sex scandal. Had a cancerous tumor removed from his mouth which removed some of his palate and jaw. It was done secretly; even his vice president Adlai Stevenson was kept in the dark. He healed quickly and he was fitted with a vulcanized rubber prosthesis that plugged the hole in his mouth and restored his normal speaking voice. All the while, the public was told that the president had merely suffered a toothache.

Even more fun facts: His second daughter Esther was the first and only child of a president to be born in the White House, born during his second term. (Recall he was the only President to be married in the White House, which was during his first term.)

The Curtis Candy Company claims to have named their candy bar Baby Ruth after Grover Cleveland's fist daughter Ruth, not Babe Ruth. This seems far fetched, since she was born in 1891, three decades before the introduction of the candy bar. By 1921, not only was she not a baby—she wasn't even alive, having died of diphtheria in 1904. Babe Ruth tried to get into the candy business using his own name on his product but was sued for copyright infringement by the Curtis Candy Company and lost.

"We will not forget that Liberty has here made her home; nor shall her chosen altar be neglected."